THE JOB

Bring the right patients to the right doctors, and make sure the hospital's reputation supports that.

Marketing in a hospital is judged on patients, not impressions.

BY HOSPITAL SIZE

What the role covers

SMALL CLINIC	Everything: Business Profile, social, camps, referrals, often front desk
MID-SIZE	Service-line campaigns, website, call centre, corporate tie-ups, agencies
LARGE TERTIARY	A specialised remit inside a bigger team
GROUP UNIT	Local execution of group campaigns; brand and stack decided centrally

SKILLS

Three groups: craft, context, commercial

- Digital performance and analytics: GA4, a funnel from enquiry to treatment
- CRM and funnel: why the call centre matters as much as the ad
- Compliance: NMC, ASCI, Drugs and Magic Remedies Act, DPDP
- Doctor relations: translate clinical work without overclaiming
- Budgeting: ARPOB, occupancy, OPD to IPD conversion

ROUTES IN

Every route brings a gap

AGENCY	Strong on platforms; blind to what happens after the lead
FMCG	Brand discipline; but healthcare cannot be marketed like soap
PHARMA	Knows doctors; patient-side digital is new
MHA, ADMIN	Knows how a hospital works; lacks digital craft
FRESH MBA	Structured thinking; no execution track record

THE LADDER

From executive to CMO

1. Marketing or digital executive: posts, camps, agency coordination, reports
2. Assistant or deputy manager: owns channels or service lines
3. Marketing manager: unit plan, budget, agencies, reports to the unit head
4. Senior manager or regional head: multiple units or a specialism
5. Head of marketing, then CMO, chief growth or digital officer

Two things speed it up: a visible link to patient volumes, and the trust of senior doctors.

PORTFOLIO

What makes a candidate stand out

- A teardown of a local hospital's digital presence, three fixes first
- A 90-day plan for one service line at a 150-bed hospital
- A small live campaign, even a few thousand rupees, honest results
- A compliance review of real healthcare ads

Never include patient data or confidential client numbers. Discretion is part of the portfolio.

CERTIFICATIONS

Free material, limited weight on their own

- Google Ads and GA4 on Skillshop: courses and assessments free
- Meta Blueprint: courses free, proctored exams paid
- HubSpot Academy: inbound and content marketing, free

A short course in hospital operations is often worth more than another marketing badge.
